

Fact Sheet

Provision of PPE in Labour Hire Arrangements – Labour Hire Agency

1. What is PPE?

Personal Protective Equipment or PPE is "anything used or worn by a person to minimise risk to the person's health and safety", (NSW WHS Regulation 2017, Clause 5).

2. What is suitable PPE

What is "suitable" will depend on a number of factors, such as the specific tasks carried out in the workplace, the hazards/risks in each work environment and control measures available to minimise the risks and. Suitable PPE may mean PPE that is suitable for the nature and duration of the work, PPE that is a suitable size and fit for the person or PPE that is clean, hygienic and in good working order. This means that there cannot be an exhaustive list of what is suitable PPE.

3. What are some examples of PPE?

PPE includes but is not limited to:

- hard hats
- earplugs
- gloves
- goggles
- respirators
- sunscreen
- safety harnesses
- safety boots, and
- high-visibility clothing.

Uniforms, particular items of clothing are not necessarily PPE unless the reason for requiring workers to wear the garment is to minimise workplace risks – e.g., High-visibility vests as part of a Traffic Management Plan.

4. When is PPE used to control risks?

The Regulation (Clause 36(5)) requires a duty holder to provide "suitable" PPE to minimise any remaining risks to the health and safety of a worker after the higher order controls within the hierarchy of control framework have been considered and/or applied, as follows.

Control measures

Use the right controls to eliminate or minimise risks and to protect your workers.

Elimination

Remove the hazard completely. Eliminating the hazard is the most effective way to manage risks

Where it is not practical to eliminate a hazard, risks must be minimised.

Use one or more of the following

| Engineering | Substitute the hazard | Isolate the hazard |
|----------------------|---|---------------------------------------|
| Change the design | Replace the hazard with something safer | Separate the hazard from people |

Where it is not practical to eliminate a hazard, risks must be minimised.

Administration

Health and safety procedures and policieseg
– safe work procedures, staff training

If risks remain, the possible impact on people must be controlled using PPE.

Personal protective equipment (PPE)

e.g. – safety glasses, hard hats, protective clothing This is the least effective way to manage risks

5. What are the responsibilities of the labour hire agency?

Both the Labour Hire Agency and the Host Employer are "duty holders" under the Work Health and Safety legislation. Labour Hire Agencies must have in place a system to obtain information from the Host Employer about the nature of work that the worker will be undertaking to ensure that the workers are being provided with a work environment without risks or with minimised risks to health and safety. This includes verifying the necessary PPE the worker needs and ensuring it is available on commencement of worker's placement at the workplace, to meet health and safety obligations.

6. Are there any circumstances when the labour hire should provide PPE?

Generally, it is the host employer who is the PCBU who directs the carrying out of the work and is required to provide PPE. However, if a labour hire agency was the PCBU that directs the carrying out of the work, then it would be required to provide suitable PPE.

However, in some circumstances it may be practicable for the Labour hire agency to supply generic PPE. For example, where a Labour Hire Agency supplies workers for a short period of time, it might provide generic PPE such as safety shoes, hard hats and high visibility vests.

In such circumstances the Labour Hire Agency could provide the worker with the PPE that is required for the worker to be readily available to work safely at different workplaces for short engagements.

7. Workers must not pay for their PPE

The legislation is very clear that there are NO circumstances under which a worker should be required to pay for PPE. Therefore, a PCBU, who has a duty to provide PPE must do so at no cost to the worker.

In some circumstances, it may be practicable to have the workers purchase their own PPE (safety shoes for example), but in all such cases, the worker must be reimbursed for the outlay on provision of a tax invoice / receipt. Section 273 WHS Act 2011.

8. What is the worker's duty in relation to PPE?

If provided with PPE, so far as the worker is reasonably able, the worker must use or wear the PPE in accordance with any information, training or instruction provided by the PCBU. (WHS Regulation cl 46)

The worker must also not intentionally misuse or damage the PPE. If the worker becomes aware of any damage, defect or need to clean or decontaminate any of the PPE they must advise the PCBU of this.

If the PPE is uncomfortable or does not fit properly, the worker should consult with their manager.

9. Can PPE be reissued?

Some items of PPE can be re-used and reissued to other workers. It is not unreasonable for the host employer to require the PPE to be handed in when a worker has finished their assignment with the Host Employer.

The Host Employer must ensure that all used PPE is clean and in good condition if it is to be reused. Therefore, the Host Employer should have a process in place to have the PPE inspected, discarded, or repaired and decontaminated if it is to be reused and reissued.

Disclaimer _

This publication may contain information about the regulation and enforcement of work health and safety in NSW. It may include some of your obligations under some of the legislation that SafeWork NSW administers. To ensure you comply with your legal obligations you must refer to the appropriate legislation.

Information on the latest laws can be checked by visiting the NSW legislation website.

This publication does not represent a comprehensive statement of the law as it applies to particular problems or to individuals or as a substitute for legal advice. You should seek independent legal advice if you need assistance on the application of the law to your situation.

This material may be displayed, printed and reproduced without amendment for personal, in-house or noncommercial use.

Catalogue No. SWNSW_35247_23 SafeWork NSW, 92-100 Donnison Street, Gosford, NSW 2250 Locked Bag 2906, Lisarow, NSW 2252 Customer Experience 13 10 50 Website www.safework.nsw.gov.au © Copyright SafeWork NSW